INTERNATIONAL Pavement Co. First Mortgage Bonds, WITH A BONUS OF STOCK. The pavement made by this Company has met with the highest favor, both in this country and in Europe, and it is considered to approach perfection more nearly than any other. The Works of the Company are at Providence, R. I., and at Hastings, N. Y., and the needs of its business will soon require additional ones at Chicago and other large cities. Negotiations are now pending with capitalists in London and Paris for the right to manufacture and use this pavement in those cities. Few enterprises now on the market promise as profitable business as this one. The Company require additional means to extend their facilities for manufacturing, and offer for sale the second $100,000 of their 6 per cent bonds (convertible into stock) at par and interest. These bonds carry a bonus of stock, which is fixed for the present at FIFTY PER CENT. STATE NEWS.

Androscoggin.

The Journal says: We hear that an Auburn shoe manufacturer proposes to put in a crimping machine, a recent invention, of which there is none yet in operation in this State. The fall trade in boots and shoes is progressing favorably. All kinds of heavy pegged work have been in good demand, and manufacturers on this grade of work are quite busy. Unlined kip shoes have received some attention. Orders for calf boots are beginning to come in. The demand for light work, including women's and misses' sewed boots and shoes, has not come up to expectation, and the factories in Auburn, Lynn, Haverhill and Beverly are still rather quiet. It is said that one of the causes of the backwardness in the demand for sewed goods is the fact that the royalty on McKay's sewing machine will run out in August, which will make a difference of $1 20 per case in the cost of shoes. Buyers may not get the whole benefit of this reduction. Some manufacturers in busy seasons paid as high as $200 per day under this royalty. The chances are that with the advance in stock prices of boots and shoes will be higher two months hence, and those who place their orders now will be the gainers. There are about one hundred buyers now in Boston.

Cumberland.

The News says that Friday morning the hotel of Wm. H. Smith, at Raymond village, came near being destroyed by fire. About three o'clock Aaron Cross, of Bridgton, boarder at the hotel, awoke and fancied he smelt something burning. Convinced of that such was the case, he aroused the other inmates, and after a considerable search, the source of the smoke was discovered. The woodwork beneath the kitchen stove had caught fire and the flames had already made considerable headway.

Franklin.

The Journal says LaForest Tufts, of North Farmington, lost six very nice fine wool sheep by drowning the 18th inst. Mr. T. seeing there was a fair prospect for a freshet, started to drive his large flock from the pasture to the barn which was quite a distance away. He got them as far as the brook in the rear of his buildings, when he found it was impossible to cross without a bridge. This he soon built by laying a plank from bank to bank, and by managing very carefully, succeeded in saving all but six of his best ones, which fell off the plank, in the attempt to reach the other side.

Kennebec.

The Journal says the apple and pear trees in Belgrade indicate an abundance of blossoms, which is a pretty sure sign that we shall have an abundance of this indispensible fruit.

Knox.

The Free Press says that the tempest which visited Martinsville, Wednesday, was terrific. The lightning was sharp and thunder very heavy. The height of the tempest was about eight o'clock, when the rain poured down in torrents, and in some parts of the town windows were broken by the hail, a circumstance not remembered to have occurred for many years. We have not heard of any damage being done by the lightning.

Lincoln.

Bankers are arriving at Boothbay with full trips. Schooner Humboldt, of Boothbay, with a fare, ran ashore on Cape Small Point, Thursday, in the thick weather.

Oxford.

About 9 o'clock Thursday evening, fire was discovered in the room over the engine of the Paris Hill sled factory. The alarm was given, and the citizens at once turned out, and soon quelled the fire. The damage is small and covered by insurance.

Washington.

The Union says that Mrs. Steves, wife of Andrew Steves, of Machias, died instantly of heart disease in her home, Sunday morning.

The Union says that Burnham and Morrill's factory, at Englishman's River, Geo. Thompson, Superintendent, commenced business two weeks ago with a crew of 25 men and 18 women. They can an average of two thousand pounds of lobsters per day; lobsters plenty and larger size than for the past few years. At their factory at Portland last winter, this factory canned 40,000 car cases of mutton besides a larger amount of other meat.

THE MAMMOTH FALL RIVER STEAMER.

Casting of the Immense Bed-Plate for the Engine.

[From the N. Y. Times.]

The large bed-plate for the Fall River steamer Puritan was successfully cast yesterday at the foundry of John Roach & Son. About 2 o'clock in the afternoon the iron in the furnaces had been melted to a white incandescent fluid. A tall man with a long iron rod stood near the furnaces and tapped them, letting the metal flow in a brilliant white stream into two large ladles. From these large ladles the iron was poured into smaller ones of 200 pounds capacity, each of which was carried by four men and emptied into one large tank ladle of 17 tons capacity and into two smaller tank ladles of 7 tons capacity each. As the liquid metal was poured into the tank ladles it sent shinning white stars whirling into the air. Although these white stars were said to burn through the clothes in falling, the workmen did not seem to mind them much, but some how or other easily managed to keep out of their way. Charcoal was poured on the iron to keep out the cold air from the top, and thus prevent the metal from forming a crust and cracking. The large tank was was placed immediately above the mold of the bed-plate, and the two smaller ones on the opposite side were suspended by chains to a large crane. The immense mold was 37 feet long and 14 feet wide. To construct it about 2,000 feet of timber were used, for the frame had first be made of wood and the clay molded to that. The entire mold was covered by a roof of bricks into which ducts for conducting the molten metal were cut. About 4 30 o'clock all was ready. The tank ladles were full, and all the men were at their posts. Foreman Gaynor stood on an elevated position at the head of the mold near the big tank. The smaller tank ladles were swung round to the edge of the mold. Mr. Gaynor ordered the tank to be tapped, and immediately, after a white shinning stream flowed out with a bubbling sound, raising a fierce white flame along its track. When the smaller tanks were tapped the liquid iron illuminated the entire foundry, and raised the temperature about 50°. A cheer rose from the workmen when the plate had been cast successfully. Then they began shoveling sand on the superfluous molten iron to prevent rapid cooling off. The plate when trimmed down and completed, will be 21 feet 9 inches long, 12 feet 6 inches wide, and 3¼ inches thick.

SEA-SICKNESS.

DIRECTIONS FOR ITS PREVENTION AND TREATMENT.

1. Do not go on the steamer in a nervous or exhausted condition; have every preparation made at least twenty-four hours before starting. This direction is particularly important for ladies.

2. Eat a good hearty meal, three hours before sailing, of wholesome food.

3. Select a berth as near the center of the vessel as possible. In going to Europe it is better to be on the starboard side, and in returning on the port side, which will be the sunny side.

4. Go on board sufficiently early to arrange such things as may be wanted for the first day or two, so that they may be easy of access; then undress and go to bed before the vessel gets under way. The neglect of this by those who are liable to sea-sickness is sure to be regretted. If subject to nausea, retain the horizontal position the entire passage if necessary.

5. Eat regularly and as heartily as you can (and there is nothing that can be taken better than light chicken broth,) but without raising the head for at least one or two days. In this way the habit of digestion is kept up, the strength is preserved, while the system becomes accustomed to the constant change of equilibrium.

6. On the first night out take some mild laxative medicine, and be careful to keep the bowels open for the remainder of the voyage. Constipation not only results from sea-sickness, but in turn aggravates it.

7. After having become so far habituated to the sea as to be able to take your meals at the table and go on deck, never think of rising in the morning until you have eaten something, as a plate of oatmeal, or a cup of coffee or tea, with biscuit. The Edinburgh biscuit can be taken by the most delicate. If subsequently during the voyage the sea should become unusually rough, go to bed before getting sick. It is foolish to dare anything when there is no glory to be won and something to be lost.

8. Do not make the mistake of trying to keep on deck—it is a mistake to suppose that sea-sickness is beneficial to any one—it is permently injurious and has sometimes resulted fatally.

9. The improvement in health from a sea voyage is, as a general rule, proportioned to the freedom from sea-sickness.

10. Persons with depressed vital powers and with impaired and feeble digestion should avoid exposure to sea-sickness.

11. Medical art is powerless to cure, but can greatly mitigate and relieve its sufferings.

12. The phenomena constituting sea-sickness are purely physical—it is not confined to the human race, as animals also are subject to the same malady.

13. Some persons can never become habituated to the sea. Some naval officers are always sick in rough weather.

14. The cause of it is due to the sudden and recurring changes of the relations of the fluids to the solids of the body, and the nervous disturbances which result from these changes. The liquids contained in their vessels, as well as the solids of the economy, obey equally the laws of gravitation when the body is subjected to alternate movements of ascent and descent. The blood, by its fluidity, yields more readily to the influence of descent, and less easily than the solids to the ascending impulse. Consequently it does not return to the brain with the same regularity as in the case where the body remains stable, and leaves it more rapidly in the movement of descent. These results, as to the circulation, in alternations of afflux and delay in the arrival of the blood to the different organs of the body, which disturb their functions, and those of the brain especially, analogous to that which follows the loss of blood in some persons who are nauseated and vomit after vivisection.

The horizontal position, which to a certain degree modifies this disturbance of function, is the only approximation to a cure.

15. Rooms near the furnaces are objectionable, not only on account of the heat, which is sometimes very disagreeable, but also from the noise which, at certain hours, is made by the donkey engine in drawing up the ashes and cinders.—Dr. Barker.

DOMESTIC BREVITIES.

To keep meat in warm weather it should be rubbed over with salid oil, every crevice being filled with ginger. Meat that is intended for roasting or frying can be much better preserved by this means than with salt.

Steaks or chops, which, when cut off, always keep badly, should be dipped in warm butter, or even dripping, if oil is not forth-coming, and then hung up until wanted. Of course the object in these cases is to exclude the air.

In summer, dressed poultry should always have placed in the stomach a piece of charcoal tied in a rag, which will, of course, be removed before cooking. Pieces of charcoal should also be put in a refrigerator and changed often.

In baking bread grease the loaves or dough with a little butter on the end of the finger just before putting the loaves into the oven. The crust thus treated browns nicely and stays soft even when the bread has been baked a good while.

Bread or rolls that are very stale may be made quite fresh for an hour or two by dipping them into milk and leaving them in a brisk oven "till quite hot through." They must be eaten at once, however, for when cold they will be as stale as ever.

FASHION NOTES.

Wild sage is the name of a new perfume.

Hollyhock wreaths are the newest for garden hats.

Chenille flowers are embroidered on grenadine gowns.

Steel stitching appears on some slippers of new designs.

Natural flowers are worn on the bonnet at evening receptions.

Spanish lace is used to trim cloth mantles as well as those of silk.

Stockings shaded from the toe up are the newest folly in hosiery.

The draperies of muslin dresses are not hemmed, but turned under and looped.

Surah makes a much better trimming than either silk or satin, being soft and easily folded.

Buttonless silk gloves reaching above the elbow are new, but not so pretty as those of kid.

The merit of bunting is that it does not crease; of nun's veiling, that it does not catch the dust.

A new sleeve pattern is tucked at the top instead of shirred, and caught up on the inside of the arm by a bow.

Imitation cashmere lace is substituted for Spanish by dealers who have a stock of it left over from the time when it was fashionable.

FERTILIZER EXPERIMENTS IN MAINE. The subject of artificial fertilizers is to be made a study, this year, in this State, under the direction and with the aid of the efficient Secretary of the Board of Agriculture, Mr. Z. A. Gilbert, who has made arrangements with the Bowker Fertilizing Company to furnish chemicals for the trials. It is recommended to plant plots of one-twentieth acre each with barn manure, dissolved bone black, muriate of potash, bone black and potash, a full ration of complete fertilizer, a half ration of same, and a plot with no manure or fertilizer. Farmers are expected to conduct the experiments with care, and to note the appearance of the crop during the entire growing season. Although experiments of this kind cannot be expected to settle many questions the first year, yet they will tend to make farmers more familiar with the nature and action of special fertilizers, and may, after a time, acquaint them with any peculiarity in the composition of the soil of their own farms.

CONNECTICUT AGRICULTURE. The Connecticut Legislature, at its recent session, accepted the gift of a farm at Mansfield, owned by Mr. Augustus Storrs, and appropriated $5,000 per year, for three years, for its maintenance as a School for Agriculture. A gift of $5,000 from Mr. Storrs' brother also goes with the farm. The School will be in charge of the Governor of the State, the Director of the Experiment Station, and six trustees, appointed by the Senate, and one of the Board of Agriculture. The desire of the donors, we believe, is to see a school established where young men can acquire such a knowledge of, and a taste for, farming, that they will be ready and glad to take charge of farms of their own or of others, and able to so manage them that they shall be a credit to the State and to agriculture, as a business. The Legislature also passed a bill subjecting every manufacturer and importer of fertilizers to a license fee of fifty dollars for one kind of fertilizer, and fifteen dollars for each additional kind, the money to go to the support of the Experiment Station. The game laws were so amended that persons found with a bird-dog and gun on the premises of another, may be arrested by the owner of the land and taken before a justice for trial, unless he leaves the premises at once, when so ordered.

GENERAL GRANT'S LETTER.

[From the New York Tribune.]

General Grant's letter to Senator Jones will be regretted by all his real friends. It is written from as low a level of personal and factional politics as that occupied by Mr. Conkling himself, and is nothing better than a hasty, bungling plea in defence of the old spoils theory—a theory which the Senate has just repudiated without a division, and which the Republican masses of the country strongly condemn. The letter will effectually destroy the belief which grew out of General Grant's wise and apparently unselfish conduct in the last campaign, that he holds himself above the contest of factions and the ambitions and animosities or place-hunters and patronage-mongers. He is no longer the distinguished and patriotic representative of the whole Republican party; he steps down to the position of an eager and indiscreet partisan of the element which failed to nominate him at Chicago, ready to espouse the quarrel of one of its leaders without reflection or consistency. His letter cannot fail to strengthen the suspicion that a scheme was formed after the election last fall to capture the Administration and control all the powerful political offices for the purpose of bringing him forward again as a candidate in 1884 by the same methods which came so near winning in 1880. The best face that can be put upon it is to suppose that it is a private letter, written hurriedly upon a misapprehension of the facts regarding the late controversy in Washington. We sincerely hope, in the interest of General Grant's reputation and influence, that he did not authorize Senator Jones to print it.

The letter opens with a complaint that "nothing has been done by the President "to allay the bitterness which must be engendered by his most recent appointments." Who engendered that bitterness? Was there any ill-feeling in any quarter until Mr. Conkling stirred it up? Has not the event proved that the storm area in the Senate centred in Conkling, and that its circumference took in nobody else except his deputy, Platt? General Grant goes on to say: "When the first batch of nominations for New York was sent in I was delighted." Of course he was. The first batch was made up exclusively of men who belonged to the Conkling wing and were conspicuous supporters of the Grant movement last year. "I believed then the President had determined to recognize the "Republican party and not a faction." To recognize the Republican party, and not a faction, according to General Grant, it is necessary for the President to appoint only men who belong to the Grant-Conkling element. "But his nominations of the next "day convinced me that the first act was "but a part of a deep-laid scheme by some-"body to punish prominent leaders for be-"ing openly friendly to me." In other words, when President Garfield nominated ten men who voted for Grant at Chicago and one who voted against him, it was evidence of a deep-laid scheme to punish men for being friendly to Grant. This is too puerile and pitiful for comment. People will ask what bee has got into the bonnet of the ex-President thus to distort his vision and pervert his judgment.

Further on in this extraordinary letter General Grant says that Conkling and Platt are the Senators from New York, chosen "against all the opposition of an Administration created by the same party that elected them." This, he thinks, should give them all the stronger claim to be consulted in the matter of appointments in their State. "When it comes to filling the most influential office in their State without consulting these Senators," he says, "it is a great slight to them." Is it, indeed? Then why did General Grant, when he was President, put the same slight upon the two Senators from Massachusetts? Has he forgotten that he nominated Simmons for Collector of Boston against the wishes of Senators Sumner and Boutwell, and of the whole Congressional delegation from the State besides, with the solitary exception of General Butler? Did he not make that nomination solely as a favor to Butler and without regard to the fitness of the nominee? An ex-President who criticises the conduct of his successor should have a good memory and be careful not to assail his own record. "When he selects the most offensive man to be found it becomes an insult and ought to be resented to the bitter end." This is harsh language and unjust language. What right has General Grant to charge President Garfield with selecting the most offensive man to be found for the Collectorship of New York? Offensive to whom? To him and to Conkling no doubt, but to whom besides? Where is the proof that Robertson's nomination has given offence to anybody else, unless we count Platt, who is not worth counting? But General Grant says it "is not only offensive to the New York Senators but it is offensive to New York Republicans." What authority has a gentleman in the City of Mexico to speak for the Republicans of New York, and that too, after they have spoken for themselves through their representatives in the Legislature, and have heartily commended Robertson's appointment? General Grant closes his letter with the following criticism on certain foreign appointments, which is open to the charge of being unfair and in bad taste:

The change of Badeau and Cramer, the two appointments in which I felt a strong personal interest, was very distasteful to me; the first, because of our personal relations and my wish that he should be kept where his office would support him until he finishes some work he is engaged upon, and which he could do without interfering with his public duties. The second, because it was at the expense of removing the son of my old Secretary of State, who probably never had his superior—certainly never for moral worth—in the department. It is true Fish resigned. But he did this from a sense of honor, supposing it to be the duty of Representatives abroad to give a new Administration the opportunity of saying whether they were wanted or not.

What are the facts about these three officials? Badeau has held the Consul-Generalship for twelve years. The work he has been engaged upon was a life of Grant. He finished it last summer, and it is now on the market. The President, wishing to oblige General Grant by keeping his old staff officer in place, nominated him for Charge d'Affaires at Copenhagen. Badeau did not think the salary of $5,000 enough for him, and declined it. Mr. Cramer was transferred from Copenhagen to Berne at Grant's request. He was originally appointed twelve years ago because he was Grant's brother-in-law, and is kept in an agreeable diplomatic position for the same reason. Mr. Fish did not wish to remain longer in Switzerland. He was not removed, nor would his resignation have been accepted save by his own desire.

We do not know that there is anything more to say. Indeed, we are sorry that it is necessary to say so much. The letter is an unfortunate one in any light it can be regarded. We hope it will turn out to be a strictly private letter thrust before the people by the misdirected zeal of Mr. Conkling's personal organ.

THE GARFIELD-HUBBELL LETTER.

[Wash. Cor. Boston Journal.]

It is possible for the first time now to give to the public the letter of Mr. Jay A. Hubbell, Chairman of the Congressional Republican Committee, to General Garfield, which brought out the reply from Garfield of which Star Route and Democratic organs have endeavored to make so much. Mr. Hubbell to-day, being asked why he did not give to the public the letter he wrote to Garfield, in which he requested Garfield to ask Brady to solicit the Star Route contractors to contribute for the campaign, said:

"There is no such letter in existence, and never was. We were working hard, and wanted money to pay printing bills. I went to Brady, as I did to many friends, and asked why he did not contribute. He replied that he thought Garfield had not treated him right, in that he had refused to support his projects in Congress. The result was that Brady said he would contribute if Garfield should ask him; so I wrote to Garfield, informing him of our circumstances, and asked him if he could see the way clear to ask Brady to give as others had, and that it would be well to write. Garfield did reply. I showed his letter to Brady. Without explaining what he wanted, he asked me to let him take the letter and keep it a short time. I let him keep it, and he handed it back soon after."

Being requested to make his letter public, Mr. Hubbell said that he had no copy of it; that it was a private letter to Gen. Garfield. Upon reflection, however, he went to the White House, requested the President to give him the letter, and the following is a copy of it, now for the first time made public:

HEADQUARTERS REPUBLICAN CONGRESSIONAL COM. WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 19, 1880.

[Personal.

My Dear General:

I am a good deal annoyed in interesting friends to aid in carrying on my work in this campaign. Many are apathetic, and, while they are profuse in good wishes and ready to encourage by words, yet that does not pay printing bills and other expenses. General Brady of the Post Office Department seems to think that you do not care for his aid, and is for some unknown reason inclined to be cool toward you. I am satisfied that on an intimation from you that such a thing would be appreciated, he would perhaps do something for me. Indeed, he has intimated as much to me. Won't you please set him right, or in some way express a desire for his aid, for I need help very much just now?

Repectfully yours,
JAY A. HUBBELL.

To Hon. James A. Garfield, Mentor, Ohio.

This is the letter which brought out the following reply from General Garfield, recently published in the press:

MENTOR, O., Aug. 23, 1880.

My Dear Hubbell: Yours of the 17th received and contents noted. Please say to Brady I hope he will give us all the assistance possible. I think he can help effectively. Please tell me how the departments generally are doing.

As ever yours,
J. A. GARFIELD.

To Hon. Jay A. Hubbell, Washington, D. C.

Mr. Hubbell said: "After all, I didn't get anything from him until the campaign was over. I advanced some money of my own, and General Brady gave me his check for a part of the sum. I suppose it was his own personal contribution.

A REMINDER FOR GEN. GRANT.

[From the Boston Herald.]

When Gen. Grant declares it to be a "great slight" and "an insult" for the President to select a Collector for the port of New York without consulting the Senators from that State, does he forget his own action in a similar case—and, curiously enough, with the same man? During Gen. Grant's first term the New York delegation, with almost entire unanimity—including one, at least, of the Senators—recommended Judge Robertson for the position of Collector. Hon. William A Wheeler, then a member of the House, bore the petition to the President. Gen. Grant received it with the perfect composure that he commonly assumed, and replied that he had no doubt Judge Robertson was all that he was represented to be, but that he had made up his mind to appoint another man—Tom Murphy. Decidedly astonished, but with courtesy equal to the occasion, Mr. Wheeler asked the President if he objected to telling him why Mr. Murphy had been selected. General Grant said, in substance, that Murphy was a good fellow, that he liked him, and thought he ought to have something. Even the Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Boutwell, was said to be entirely in the dark as to the President's intentions until the announcement was made to him by a New York member. Is Judge Robertson's nomination any more "offensive to the Republicans of New York"—whose representatives at Albany unanimously approved it—than Tom Murphy's was to the entire public sentiment of the State? We fear that the ex-President is "off his base," as were.

READING HIMSELF OUT OF THE PARTY.

[Wash Special to the N. Y. Evening Post.]

A friend of Mr. Conkling tells me that it is foolish to characterize Conkling's step as actuated by sudden pique. "It is not child's play or the sulking of a spoilt child. I know of my personal knowledge," he said, "that the step was taken on mature deliberation in full view of all possible consequences, and with far-reaching political designs. I believe that Conkling is indifferent to a re-election. I think a split in the Republican party is inevitable, and that it has won its last national victory. Garfield can never be renominated by a united party, nor can Blaine win the prize. The signs of the times portend a new party based on some living issue, and comprehensive enough to get the support of the South and a few northern States. Conkling, by uniting with David Davis and Tilden, for instance, could lay the foundations of a formidable movement which might bear Presidential fruit in 1884."

There is much of this gossip floating about. Conkling himself is very cool and quiet, and passes his time largely in attending to his very voluminous correspondence.

It was just ten years ago that Roscoe Conkling wrote to John A. Andrew: "Shall Republicans in the face of the enemy refuse to stand by their cause, which in effect is to desert to the other side, merely because loaves have not come to their baskets or fishes to their nets! Men stand talking about federal patronage and differences among leaders and personal feelings between individuals and the like. What do the people care about them? Of what public consequence are the personal aims, objects and mishaps of individuals?"

A DEFEAT THAT IS A COMPLIMENT.

No man ever received a higher testimonial of his fidelity, zeal and ability as an earnest Republican leader than the vote by which Hon. William E. Chandler failed of confirmation by the Senate for the position of Solicitor-General for the Treasury Department. The record stood 19 Republicans in favor of his confirmation, with 23 Democrats and Don Cameron opposed. The 23 Democrats based their opposition solely upon partisan grounds, because of Mr. Chandler's uncompromising Republicanism and especially his pre-eminent services in defeating the Democratic conspiracy to steal the Electoral votes of Louisiana, South Carolina, and Florida in 1876. That opposition is a handsome tribute in itself, but an even greater compliment is conveyed in Don Cameron's opposing vote, which was inspired solely by revenge for the sagacity, ability and indomitable courage with which Mr. Chandler organized the glorious victory over the Conkling-Cameron scheme of "Bossism" and the "Unit Rule" at Chicago.

The Republican party is under heavy obligations to William E. Chandler for his more than yeoman's service, and the opposition of a Democratic Senate and Don Cameron will not permanently prevent a fitting recognition of his abilities and his unshrinking championship of a free ballot North and South.

MALICE OR IGNORANCE

The Boston Traveller expresses regret at the defeat of Mr. Chandler's nomination, but puts in a spiteful and ignorant slur at Judge Robertson as follows:

Mr. Chandler, however, did not go to Chicago, pledged to vote for one candidate and then sell out to the other. Thus does history repeat itself; it was Judas, alone of the twelve, who got the price of his work. It will be remembered, too, that the silver was weighed out to him in advance.

Judge Robertson was elected a Congressional District Delegate to the Republican National Convention, representing an enthusiastic Blaine constituency, and was a pronounced and devoted supporter of Mr. Blaine before and at the time of the New York State Convention. We suppose that everybody but the Traveller knows that in that State Convention Mr. Conkling was obliged to abandon the attempt to adopt the unit rule, and that he was only able to carry a modified instruction in favor of Grant by 217 against 180, a meagre majority of 37. The widest stretch of construction could not assume authority in a State Convention to instruct any but the delegates at large, and the District delegates of New York who were opposed to Grant repudiated the idea that the State Convention could bind them to vote against their own will and that of their constituents. It is a matter of history that the only "pledge" given by William H. Robertson in reference to the Chicago nomination, was his public declaration May 6th, 1880, as follows:

"I shall vote for Mr. Blaine on the first ballot at the Chicago Convention and shall continue to vote for him as long as he is a candidate."

"THE VIRTUALLY UNANIMOUS OPINION."

[From the New York Times, May 20.]

The virtually unanimous opinion of the people of the State that Messrs Conkling and Platt should be taken at their word and allowed to retire to private life is having its natural effect on the Legislature. The actual contact of members with their constituents will probably complete the work of conviction which is already well forward, and put an end to any talk about "vindicating" the ex-Senators by a re-election." The miscalculation of the drift of public Sentiment made by Senator Conkling is simply amazing when his long experience of public life and his assiduous study of all the elements of popularity are taken into account. His superb disregard of any means of informing his supporters in the Legislature of his intentions is characteristic of the man, there being but one course possible, in his estimation, for any good Republican in any such an emergency. But the unwavering, unquestioning fidelity which alone could justify his confidence in the issue of his "appeal to the people" has passed away, and the leader who thought he was playing the part of a hero and a martyr is in danger of being laughed at as a mere posture-maker.

THE REVISED NEW TESTAMENT.

The text of the revised New Testament was made public simultaneously on both sides of the Atlantic on Friday, and the New York newspapers contain voluminous extracts from and criticisms upon the work. As an illustration we present that portion of the VIth chapter of Matthew, which contains the Lord's Prayer in the old and new versions as follows:

5. And when thou prayest, thou shalt not be as the hypocrites are: for they love to pray standing in the synagogues and in the corners of the streets, that they may be seen of men. Verily I say unto you, they have their reward.	And when ye pray, ye shall not be as the hypocrites: for they love to stand and pray in the synagogues and in the corners of the streets, that they may be seen of men. Verily I say unto you, They have received their reward.
6. But thou when thou prayest, enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut thy door, pray to thy Father which is in secret; and thy Father which seeth in secret shall reward thee openly.	But when ye pray, enter into thy chamber, and having shut thy door, pray to thy Father which is in secret, and thy Father which seeth in secret shall recompense thee.
7. But when ye pray, use not vain repetitions, as the heathen do, for they think that they shall be heard for their much speaking.	And in praying ye use not vain repetitions, as the Gentiles do: for they think that they shall be heard for their much speaking.
8. Be not ye therefore like unto them: for your Father knoweth what things ye have need of, before ye ask him.	Be not ye therefore like unto them: for your Father knoweth what things ye have need of, before ye ask him.
9. After this manner therefore pray ye: Our Father which art in heaven, hallowed be thy name.	After this manner therefore pray ye: Our Father which art in heaven. Hallowed be thy name.
10. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven.	Thy kingdom come. They will be done, as in heaven, so on earth.
11. Give us this day our daily bread.	Give us this day our daily bread.
12. And forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors.	And forgive us our debts, as we also have forgiven our debtors.
13. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, for ever. Amen.	And bring us not into temptation, but deliver us from the evil one.
14. For if ye forgive men their trespasses, your heavenly Father will also forgive you:	For if ye forgive men their trespasses, your heavenly Father will also forgive you.
15. But if ye forgive not men their trespasses, neither will your Father forgive your trespasses.	But if ye forgive not their trespasses, neither will your Father forgive your trespasses.

The New York Times strongly supported Grant in 1880 and its publisher, Mr. George Jones, organized the $250,000 fund for the ex-President, but that paper is evidently ashamed of Gen. Grant's unfortunate letter espousing Conkling's quarrel, as it fails to print or make any mention of the epistle.

As the popular indignation at Senator Conkling's course grows in volume and emphasis we hear less talk of his demanding an "endorsement" and more assertions that he does not want to go back to the Senate. The Boston Traveller's Washington correspondent telegraphed Saturday:

Intimate personal friends of Senator Conkling, who claim to know as to his future course, say in the most positive manner that he does not intend to go before the New York Legislature as a candidate for re-election, but he was sincere in tendering his resignation, and intends to devote himself to the law practice for the next few years. It is altogether probable, however, that he will be heard from within the next week in an elaborate speech, in which he will give, at length, his reasons for retiring to private life, and why he cannot support the present administration.

Ex-Senator Conkling elevated his nose to the level of his forehead when he learned that President Garfield had been seen in a carriage with the anti-stalwart ex-Secretary Schurz. But it was the anti-stalwart Senator David Davis of whom Conkling made a confident when he decided to shatter things by sending in his resignation.—N. Y. Post.

The recent assertions that Senator Conkling resigned without any intention of being re-elected is contradicted by the following statement of the Chicago Inter-Ocean:

Senator Conkling told Senator Jones, of Nevada, who is a warm personal friend, that he did not resign with the expectation that such action on his part would affect Robertson's case one way or the other, but that his only motive in resigning was to give the Legislature of his State an opportunity to express its approval or disapproval of the position he has assumed in the Robertson case.

It was not necessary for General Grant to write a letter to let the people know that, if he were President, Conkling would have his own way with the New York patronage. Precisely that situation existed during both of General Grant's terms. Mr. Conkling was entirely harmonious during that time.—Tribune.

The Boston Herald ought to be and we hope it is ashamed of copying without a word to indicate its fraudulent character, the stupid forgery put forth by the Tammany-Conkling organ in New York purporting to be a letter from Secretary Blaine to Judge Robertson. Any sensible person would at once see the absurdity of the forgery, but a great many fools read the Herald and to them it presented the fraud as a genuine letter. Rather cheap journalism that.

THE NEW POSTMASTER AT AUGUSTA. We congratulate our Augusta friends upon the appointment of Hon. Joseph H. Manley for Postmaster of that city, who is sure to make an unusually efficient and popular officer. Mr. Manley's fine executive abilities will prove of great value in the management of the large and increasing postal business at Augusta, while his pleasing address and genial good-nature will be appreciated by all with whom he is brought in official or personal relations. Horace Hamlen, Esq., who has held the position for many years will find in Mr. Manley a most worthy and able successor. The newspaper fraternity of the State will credit President Garfield with this recognition of the craft.

INVESTORS OF

FIVE PER CENT. GOLD FORTY-YEAR BOND, Due 1921.

Secured by First Mortgage Upon the Chicago and Pacific Western Division of the System of the Company.

Interest Payable Semi-Annually in New York, in Gold, on January 1 and July 1.

THE CHICAGO, MILWAUKEE AND ST. PAUL RAILWAY COMPANY is the beginning of the current year owned and operated about 3,700 miles of railway.

To further complete and consolidate its system, and especially the Southwestern portion of the same, the Company has acquired a number of connecting lines in the State of Iowa and Dakota, and is constructing a line of railway from Dubuque and Marion across the State of Iowa to Council Bluffs, opposite Omaha, with branches into Nebraska and Dakota, including three bridges across the Missouri and Mississippi Rivers. To provide means for these purposes the Company has determined to issue its bonds secured by first mortgage at the rate of $20,000 PER MILE OF COMPLETED AND EQUIPPED ROAD, and further issues for three bridges, and for additional rolling stock when required by the increased traffic of the Company; and in case it becomes required by increased traffic the Company may double track the line at not to exceed an additional hypothecation of $8,000 a mile. The deed of trust to the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company STRINGENTLY provides that NO BONDS CAN BE ISSUED except for the aforenamed purposes WHEN ACTUALLY ACCOMPLISHED.

The Capital Stock of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway Company is:

In Preferred Stock	$12,404,483
In Common Shares	15,404,261
Making together	$27,808,744

During the entire existence of this Company dividends of 7 per cent per annum on the preferred stock have been paid, and from time to time dividends on the common stock, which later for 1879 amounted to 6 per cent, while for 1880 7 per cent were paid on the common stock. The gross earnings for the year, ending December 31, 1880 amounted to..... $13,086,118 61
After deducting operating expenses and taxes..... 7,749,425 65
There were left net earnings..... $5,343,692 93
And after paying interest on the total bonded debt there remained a profit for the year of $3,749,607 45, from which, deducting the dividend of 7 per cent on both classes of stock, $1,946,613 08 leaves a balance of net profits $802 995 37, which, together with the surplus of former years, leaves an undivided balance of income of $3,369,977 13.

The rolling stock of the Company at the beginning of the year consisted of 425 locomotives and 13,634 cars of various descriptions.

The new system which the Company is now constructing and for which this issue of bonds is made will make the shortest line from Chicago to Omaha, and will enable it to secure a share of the transcontinental traffic heretofore mainly controlled by the other lines extending east from Omaha; and it is expected that the superior location of the line by which these bonds are secured and their redemption in gold coin will make the same an exceptionally desirable investment.

(Signed)—JULIUS WADSWORTH, Vice-President.

The undersigned having secured control of the above described loan, OFFER $5,000,000 for public subscription AT THE PRICE OF 100 and accrued interest; subject to an advance in price and to closing of subscription without notice.

Subscriptions will likewise be received by the Deutsche Vereinsbank of Frankfort o. M., giving purchasers the advantage of an international market.

Masters of vessels should bear in mind the contemplated change in the color of buoys, etc., on this coast, by reason of the rearrangement of the same, which is to be made at an early day. The new system is arranged for the approach of the vessels from the eastward instead of the westward as at present. The reason for thus turning things upside down, or any advantage to be secured by the performance, is not mentioned by the circular. It is probably an effort to kill time, and give a large force of idlers an apology for work.

VALUABLE REAL ESTATE AT AUCTION.

On SATURDAY, May 28th, at 10½ o'clock in the forenoon on the premises.

In consequence of the intended removal of the present owner, will be sold at public auction as above named, the very desirable property now owned by M. C. Withers, Esq., situated in Brewer, one mile from the Toll Bridge, on the road to Brewer Village.

The house is two stories, contains 11 rooms, is in good repair, has good stable and poultry shed connected, also an Ice House of 30 tons capacity near by. The lot contains 82 acres of excellent land, having quite a number of good fruit trees thereon. The situation of the property is exceedingly pleasant, as the Penobscot River is in full view from the house, and for a pleasant home is very desirable.

Immediately following the sale of house, shall sell a part of the Household Furniture contained therein; also a few Farming tools and a Frodsham Ship Chronometer.

WASHINGTON.

The Treasury Department.

WASHINGTON, May 21 At the close of business to-day notices had been received at the Treasury Department for the continuance of $209,153,800 of 5 per cent. bonds In most instances the bonds have already been received at the Department. It is thought the limit of $250,000,000 of registered 5s, which can be converted into 4s, will be reached Monday next. A large number of telegrams were received at the Department to day inquiring if 6 per cent. bonds would be accepted for conversion into 4s, if forwarded to-day. A reply was telegraphed in each instance that the time for presenting 6s for continuance has expired and the request cannot be granted.

A committee has been appointed by Secretary Windom to investigate the management of the office of the Custodian of the Treasury Department.

Register of Treasury Schofield will not after to-day be on duty in the Treasury, having been appointed Judge of the Court of Claims. Ex Senator Bruce, of Mississippi the newly appointed Register, will enter upon his duties Monday next.

Claim Against the Spanish Government.

At a meeting this afternoon of the Spanish American Claims Commission, at the State Department, Count Lewenhaupt, the umpire, rendered a decision in the case of Jas E. M. Mayo, a naturalized citizen of the United States, who claimed from the Spanish Government damages to the amount of $600,000, principal and interest, for losses caused by the seizure of his plantation near Matanzas in '69. His United states citizenship was admitted, as were the general facts of the case, the plantation having been seized under misapprehension as to its ownership. The arbitrators having failed to agree upon the amount the case was submitted to an umpire who rendered a decision to day, awarding the claimant principal and interest amounting to $225,000.

A Good Cause.

At a meeting of prominent citizens this evening, presided over by Judge Lawrence a Constitution was adopted of an organization to be known as the Red Cross Society. Clara Barton and John Hitz made addresses, stating the objects of the organization, which is for the relief of sick and wounded soldiers by governmental assistance. Legislative action is needed to establish it in this country, and assurances have been given that the present Administration will bring the matter before Congress.

MARINE RECORD.

Steamer Sunk off Baston.

BOSTON, May 21. The steamship Ganos, from Matanzas for Boston, sugar laden, collided, twenty miles east of Boston light during a thick fog last night, with the Warren line steamer Pembroke, for Liverpool; and the former sunk in forty fathoms of water. The crew barely escaped with the exception of one seaman who was drowned. The loss on the cargo is $350,000; on the steamer, which is owned in Hull, $160,000. The Pembroke was not seriously injured, but put back to repair.

Pembroke's bow was damaged and her forward compartment filled with water. She will discharge a portion of her cargo to repair.

The Ganos' cargo was consigned to R. C. Cushman & Co., of this city. She was of 1443 tons and seven years old. The vessel and cargo are a total loss.

The cargo of the steamer Ganos, sunk by the steamer Pembroke, was insured for $218,500. Steps will be taken by the marine underwriters to libel the steamer Pembroke for damages.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 21. At a meeting of the Baptist Foreign Missionary Society to-day the annual report was read showing the receipts of the Society to be $13,3,774. A large number of Bibles have been printed in foreign languages. The number of members has increased to 90,000.

COLORADO.

Fighting Over the Possession of a Mine.

DENVER, May 21. The News Irwin Special says that the trouble over the Adirondack mine came to a focus yesterday. Deputy Sheriff of Gunnison county D. R. Powers, and a number of others, appeared at the mine. A warrant was read for the arrest of Keogh and Maloney, who were holding possession, which they refused to bear. Firing soon began resulting in the wounding of Maloney in the right hand and of Keogh in the arm.

The Powers party then took possession but were soon after arrested by a large party under U. S. warrants. The deputies telegraphed for assistance fearing a mob.

Irwin is situated on the Ute Reservation over which the U. S. Courts alone have jurisdiction and the deputy sheriffs were acting outside of their territory, therefore the arrest of deputies.

DEATH

Of Col. Thos. A. Scott.

CLIFTON, Pa., May 21. Thomas A. Scott, the railway magnate and millionaire, for many years President and Manager of the great Pennsylvania Road, died at nine o'clock this evening. After sinking rapidly during the afternoon he fell into a state of total unconsciousness at 7 o'clock and remained so until the moment of final dissolution. He was surrounded at the last moment by the members of his family and several of the officers of the Pennsylvania road.

No arrangements have been made thus far for Col. Scott's funeral, except that it will take place on Tuesday afternoon.

THE GREAT I AM

BUSILY SEEKING A RE-ELECTION

And So Is His Shadow Platt.

The Administration Republicans Firm and Determined to Elect Them to Remain at Home.

NEW YORK, May 21. The Troy Times' Washington despatch says: Vice President Arthur proposes to resign his office if the Legislature does not return Conkling and Platt to the Senate.

A Washington despatch to the Philadelphia Times says that Conkling before leaving Washington had all his personal effects packed for shipment and his property advertised for sale.

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 21. The Stalwarts first fired 100 guns to day in celebration of the confirmation of Gould as Collector of this port.

Meeting of the Friends of the Administration.

BUFFALO, May 21. A good sized meeting of the friends of the Administration was held at St. James Hall this evening, presided over by Myron B. Bush. Speeches were made by S. S. Rogers, A. W. Hickman, J. P. Ensfield and others. Resolutions were passed endorsing the action of President Garfield in appointing Judge Robertson and the members of the Legislature were asked not to return Conkling and Platt.

Conkling's Reception.

NEW YORK, May 21. The conference of Senator Conkling's friends did not take place to-night as expected. The Senator had a reception in his parlor at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, however, and although representatives of the press were not admitted or granted interviews, it was learned that the Senator refused to say much regarding the matter of his candidacy for re-election.

The lobby of the Hotel was crowded during the evening with politicians of every stripe and condition. Stalwarts, Half Breeds and Democrats jostled each other anxious for the least bit of political gossip. Many admirers of the Senator sent up cards, but only a small proportion were granted an audience. Ex-Senator Platt arrived early in the evening. Among those who were seen going into Mr Conkling's parlor were ex-Minister Stoughton, Fire Commissioner Van Cott, ex-Congressman Lawson, Senator Jones, of Nevada, State Senator Strahan, U. S Marshal MacDougall, A. B. Johnson, of the Republican State Committe, ex-Police Commissioner Eshartt, ex-Congressman Einstein, Elihu Root, ex-Marshal Payne, Jake Patterson, ex-Superintendent Smythe, Collector Gould, of Buffalo, and Barney Biglin. Vice President Arthur was not seen about the Hotel.

Senatorial Candidates.

ALBANY, May 21. Governor Cornell and Comptroller Wadsworth are now named as possible Senatorial candidates.

Conkling Working for a Re-election.

NEW YORK, May 22. The Tribune of to-morrow will publish the following editorially:

The followers of Mr. Conkling met on Sunday afternoon at Vice President Arthur's house in this city. The two ex-Senators were present and received assurances from a number of officeholders of support in case they should become candidates for re-election. Letters and telegrams in answer to a communication sent out by Mr. Conkling were received from various parts of the State. Mr. Conkling decided to become a candidate and Mr. Platt decided just as Mr. Conkling decided. They will probably go to Albany and solicit votes and their friends will attend in large numbers to assist them. The Administration representatives still state that Conkling and Platt cannot be re-elected. Fifty-two Republicans are said to be already pledged against them.

NEW YORK.

General Grant on his way to New York.

NEW YORK, May 21. A Washington special says that General Grant left Mexico for home as soon as he heard of the resignation of Senator Conkling.

Railroad Suit.

In relation to the legislation pending in the suit with the Manhatten Elevated Railroad of this city, Cyrus W. Field states so far as he is concerned that as the Attorney-General has brought a suit to dissolve the company, he (Field) proposes to leave the matter in the courts. Field says the charge of fraud or bad faith in the leasing of the New York Elevated and Metropolitan roads to the Manhatten Company is a gratuitous insult.

The lease was made under the advice of of Samuel J. Tilden, David Dudley Field, ex-Judge Porter and other eminent counsel, on fair terms and, equitable methods, and was unanimously approved by the stockholders. Since the lease he (Field) had protested against the management but he was excluded from participation in the management, the stockholders of the Manhattan having taken the management into their own hands.

We have received from F. H. Small, Esq., several Japanese fans with a unique advertisement of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincey Railroad on one side.

The usual gathering of ticket purchasers had assembled by noon yesterday, in front of Bagbee's, to await the opening of the store this morning, when seats for Janauschek may be obtained.

Madame Janauschek appears in Gardiner to-night, Waterville to-morrow evening, Bangor Wednesday, Belfast Thursday, Skowhegan Friday and Bath Saturday, when the season closes with the company.

There will be a special conclave of St. John's Commandery, K. T., at Masonic Hall, this evening, at half-past seven o'clock. Sir Knights are urgently requested to be present as matters of importance are to be considered. Also a meeting for drill.

I. O. G. T. Penobscot District Lodge will hold its next quarterly session with Morning Star Lodge, No. 276, at Etna, on Friday, June 3d, commencing at 10 A. M. There will be a public meeting in the evening to which all are cordially invited. Hon. T. R. Simonton, of Camden, G. W. C. T., is expected to be present to deliver an address in the evening.

Saturday forenoon a ferryman while crossing the river in one of his boats, caught sight of the body of a man floating face downward in the swift current. It was observed that the body had a blue shirt on, but the water was so quick that only a brief glance could be obtained. The body was probably that of some man drowned on the drives.

STEAMER FOR OLDTOWN PARTIES. Mr. J. B Hathorn, foreman of Crosby Bros.' shipyard, has made a set of moulds for a small steamer, from one of Capt. Barbour's models, for parties in Oldtown. Master Hathorn, who is to superintend the building of the steamer, is getting out the frame now. It will be all fitted down here, ready to be put together before it is sent up.

OPEN-AIR BAND CONCERTS. "Are we to have out-door band concerts this summer?" This is a question frequently asked. It is a matter that depends upon the liberality of our citizens. It has been customary for representatives of the Band to solicit subscriptions, yearly, as otherwise the organization could hardly be maintained. If the response is at all generous the Band gives, from time to time, free open-air concerts. "A word to the wise," etc

REFORM CLUB. The weekly meeting yesterday of this club was well attended. President Hall presided. Exercises opened with singing, reading the Scriptures by Miss Annie Page, of the Crusade, and prayer by Chaplain Randall, of the Club Well-timed remarks were made by Messrs. Hall, Lincoln, Page and Stevens of the Club; Mrs. Pickard, Mrs. Randall and Mrs. Crossman of the Crusade; Rev. Mr Palmer, of Garland, and Rev. Mr. Axtell, of this city. Several men signed the pledge.

PITTSFIELD ITEMS. Our correspondent "B" writes: Last Tuesday about twenty-five Odd Fellows from here went to Clinton to be present at the institution of a new lodge, to be known as Pine Tree Lodge, No. 80. The officers of the Grand Lodge were present.——Mr. Wm. Dobson of the firm of R. Dobson & Co. has purchased a valuable lot of I. H. Lancey and will soon commence to build a dwelling house. Mr. Chas. Chase has also purchased a lot of Russell and Gerrish with the intention of building.

NARROW ESCAPE. Wednesday, Eugene Wescott, Arthur Jacques and another man were repairing the flume connected with the pulp mill at Middle Jam, North Gorham. The swollen water surged so heavily against the gate of the flume that the men, fearful of danger, climbed out of the flume. Scarcely had they got to the firm ground when the gate of the flume was forced open, and in a few seconds the flume was filled with seething water. Had the men waited a minute in the flume they would inevitably have been drowned.

NUCLEUS OF A MENAGERIE. The Journal says: Smiles rippled over the faces of the gentlemen at the State House, yesterday, as the expressman tugged a big box into Major Gallagher's room. A few days before the Deputy Secretary of State started for his farm in East Newport, and before he went the Major repeatedly importuned him in a joking way to send him a bear. The genial pension agent paid the express bill, and Jack got a chisel and ripped off the cover of the box. Inside were a woodchuck and a young fox, respectively labelled, "This is a bear" and "This is a hyena." When the Major's treasures were exposed, the granite walls of the Capitol resounded with peals of laughter.

REUNION OF MAINE PEOPLE. There was a reunion of the Maine people in California, at Oakland, California, recently. Rev. Horatio Stebbins treated the assembly to an off-hand oration, giving a short and interesting resume of the romantic early history of Maine. George A. Nourse of San Francisco, filled the office of President of the day ably and agreeably. Among the familiar faces present claiming nativity in the Pine Tree State, were observed Mayor Blethen of Oakland; N. W. Spaulding, the newly appointed United States Treasurer at San Francisco; General Bridge, George E. Whitney, Judge Wilson of the Superior Court; and Judge Chamberlain, Receiver of the United States Land Office. The gathering celebrated with baked beans.

A RAILROAD TO THE KATAHDIN IRON WORKS. The prospect is now said to be good for the immediate building of the Bangor & Katahdin Iron Works Railroad. When the proposed road is completed the Katahdin Iron Works will be placed in direct rail communication with this city. Engineers are now surveying the route between Milo and the mine, a distance of 18 miles, which will be the length of the road. The stock is now all taken up by Bangor men, and if the land damage can be adjusted, the road will be built immediately. The company is organized under the general law. A large amount of freight is transported between the iron mines and Milo by the slow agency of teams, and it is believed that the road if built would prove a great benefit and its stock a good investment.

THE STORM AT AN END. At a little past nine o'clock Sunday, the 22d inst., rain began to fall. Since that time until yesterday not even a glimpse of the sun was obtained. It was a week of storm,—rain—rain—rain. The rivers and streams became swollen, and lumbermen were made happy; but the dreary, dripping weather became monotonous and people sighed for sunshine. Yesterday, the clouds broke away, and the face of old Sol was seen again. The streets were muddy and the air was yet chilly, but the ladies and children who had been imprisoned in-doors for a week ventured out, and were made happy in consequence. The wind seemed to be working around into the right quarter, and there is now hope of a season of pleasant weather. Work in the gardens will now be resumed and a few days of warm sunshine will give freshness and vigor to the summer vegetation.

STAGE AND PLATFORM.

The Woolson Lectures.

Unity Hall was well filled Saturday afternoon by an audience composed very largely of ladies to listen to a lecture by Mrs. Abba Goold Woolson, upon the "Formation of the English Nation and the English Language," being the first in a series to be delivered. The lecturer rapidly and briefly traced the history of England from its earliest known period down to the present time. The original people were a rude, barbaric race, known as Kelts, or Celts, which the Roman armies under Cæsar, flushed with an unbroken chain of victories, expected to find easy to overcome. But when the Roman fleet neared the shores, the armies of Cæsar were dismayed to find an enemy resembling in appearance and ferocity an army of devils, their long hair, and their bodies painted blue, giving them a most savage aspect. From the crags and cliffs the darts of the Kelts were hurled into the ranks of the Roman soldiery with great precision. A landing was finally effected, but the Kelts were by no means conquered. The occupancy of Great Britain by the Romans was dwelt upon at some length. Great Britain was occupied for five hundred years by Roman armies, and to them may be traced the present pre-eminence of British schools. The lecturer alluded to the subsequent invasions by the Dutch and the Danish pirates, and eloquently pictured the rise and fall of the Roman Empire, alluding to Julius Cæsar as one of the greatest men the world has ever produced. The people of Brittany, of Wales and Ireland, the lecturer stated, were descendants of the Kelts. Covering a period of nearly fifteen centuries England had no literature. At the close of the fourteenth century, Chaucer rose upon the scene, and though so early in the field of literature he has ever remained one of its brightest lights. The English language is composite, five different forms of speech having been brought into England which have become a common tongue. The lecture, which was really a preface to those which are to follow, contained much information which is not to be found in books, and which must have cost Mrs. Woolson a vast amount of research and study. As a lecturer, she is dignified and pleasing; she uses no manuscript, her lectures being delivered extempore; her diction is elegant and her flow of language smooth and unintrupted; the fund of information which she possesses, her knowledge of details in much of the world's unwritten history and her familiarity with the earliest authors and their works, shows her to have been an enthusiastic and thorough classical student. Her remaining lectures will be attended with great interest.

Pearl of Savoy.

When the disagreeable state of the weather which prevailed all through the past week is considered, the audience which greeted Maggie Mitchell, Saturday night, can but be deemed flattering. The play is one that appeals very strongly to emotional natures, and the character of poor "Marie," as impersonated by Maggie Mitchell, claims at once the entire sympathy of the audience. The support was even better than on the previous evening, Mr. Julian Mitchell as "Pierrot" appearing to much better advantage than in the character he assumes in "Fanchon." The performances of Friday and Saturday evenings have only added to Maggie Mitchell's popularity among our theatre goers, who will be glad to welcome her here during future seasons.

An Evening Among the Ballads.

The entertainment of the Young Ladies' Temperance Union will be given in City Hall, this evening, opening at seven o'clock with the serving of ice cream, cake and coffee. The musical and literary entertainments which is to follow will be well worth listening to, and as the object is to raise funds for the temperance work, all should be happy to lend the aid of their presence. The ballads to be rendered are nearly all new to our audiences and are very pleasing, one being a fairy piece founded upon the popular legend that the fairies' dance on Midsummer eve is visible to mortals. Give the young ladies an encouraging house.

Janauschek.

"Jennie June," the well known fashion and literary correspondent, wrote as follows from New York to the Baltimore American:

Mr. Abbey has signalized his season at Booth's by the production, one after another, of the greatest stars in the theatrical firmament, and his last in some respects is greater than his first. Janauschek is undoubtedly to-day the greatest, most commanding actress of her time. She is the only successor of the line of traged ennes of whom Mrs. Siddons stands as the representative. But Janauschek has more barrier force than Mrs. Siddons, and more intellect as well; and there is a grandeur about her which always makes one think of one of the old goddesses punished by being turned into a woman and chained to the earth by her morality. Her action, her personality, dwarfs everything; it matters little whether her support is good, bad or indifferent, she is sufficient of herself. "How knew you he was a god?" was asked of an ancient. "Because when I looked upon him I was content." This is Janauschek.

Seats may be secured at Bagbee's this morning.

The Guvnor.

The regular dramatic season of the Buskin Club will be brought to a close next Monday evening with a representation of "The Guvnor" by the original cast from the Boston Museum. Full particulars will be given shortly.

NEW MILL AT VAN BUREN,

A Model Affair—Splendid Machinery—Etc, Etc.

Away up in the northeastern portion of Aroostook County, the thriving little village of Van Buren, bordered by the wilderness, nestles peacefully on the western banks of the St. John river, the waters of which at this point serve as a boundary line between Maine and New Brunswick. It is situated about twelve miles above Grand Falls and about 240 miles above Bangor. Here, on the bank of the river, on the American side and at the mouth of an ambitious stream that flows noisily through the village, has just been erected one of the finest mills in the country, supplied with the most approved modern machinery, and perfect in all its appointments.

Through the courtesy of Mr. Burpee, Manager of the New Brunswick Railway, passes were forwarded to several of our prominent citizens, accompanied by invitations to visit the newly-erected mill and its surroundings, and an excursion party was formed, leaving here last Monday. The party comprised the Hon. Hannibal Hamlin, Col. A. G. Farnham, J. S. Ricker, Esq., and several other gentlemen, and despite the severe storm which lasted the entire week the trip proved a most enjoyable one, the party returning in the best of spirits, and enthusiastic in their description of the mill, its machinery, its location, its builders, its managers, and of the railway officials at whose hands they received many courtesies.

In October last the Hinckley & Egery Iron Company contracted to build the mill for the Van Buren Lumber and Manufacturing Company,—to build it from the ground up, to put in all the machinery, to belt it, equip it, and to start it up when completed. Work was commenced in November and the mill, completed, was set in operation last Thursday, every particle of the machinery working as smoothly and perfectly from the start as though,—to use the expression of one who witnessed it,—"it had always been running." The mill is 128 feet long by 42 feet wide and is two stories high.

On the upper floor of the mill is located the machinery for sawing, planing, etc., etc., consisting of six Dirigo shingle machines and jointers; two Davis patent clapboard machines and one sapper machine; one drag saw, with an ingenious arrangement for feeding lumber to it, invented by S. H. Richardson; one Wood's patent clapboard planer; one Rollins' patent butter; one lath and bolter machine; one rotary bed planer; one 60-inch cutting off saw, with carriage run by friction, with a new arrangement by which the bolts are fed to the saws; one circular (or rotary) mill, with Whitney's patent lever set with Champion dogs; one Richardson's patent gang edger and trimmer saws; a friction haul-up, with an endless chain 300 feet long. Besides the machinery already specified, there are many entirely new and ingenious labor-saving devices. The arrangement alluded to above by which shingle bolts are fed to the saws is somewhat as follows: In the rear of the shingle machines is a track on which runs a car; as soon as the blocks or bolts are "barked," they are carried by these cars to the respective shingle machines. The cutting up of the clapboard butts is done by an ingenious process. The log, resting in two half circles which prevent it from twisting, thus insuring perfect work, is carried on a car to the saw, where the cutting is done, the work being performed with very little manual labor. There are also carriers for taking all the waste outside of the mill, such as blocks, bark, etc. It is said that the waste in cedar is about fifty per cent., and formerly all this had to be taken away in wheelbarrows. By means of these carriers a vast amount of manual labor is saved. Indeed so perfect is their working that at the close of the day the mill is entirely clean and free from all refuse. Carriers run by chains (a great improvement over the belt) convey the sawdust, which alone is used for fuel, to the fire-room where it is fed into the furnaces.

The lower floor is principally occupied by the engine, shafting, etc. The shafting is extra heavy, turned and polished, and each machine is supplied with an idler shaft and pulley, so that any machine may be stopped at any moment without at all interfering with the running of any other machine in the mill. The machinery is driven by a 160 horse power engine with Water's patent governor, and is supplied with steam from two 60-inch tubular boilers, each sixteen feet long, the shells being made of three-eighths inch iron and the heads of one-half inch. These boilers are very heavy and are set in brick-work after the most approved manner. They are fed by a No. 7 Blake pump, a three-inch stand pipe with 150 feet of hose connections running from the upper and lower floors. A pump of much less capacity would have sufficed to feed the boilers, but a pump of the size and capacity of the one now in the mill makes it available in case of fire.

Mr. S. H. Richardson, one of our best millmen and a resident in this city, gave his personal supervision to the building and finishing of the mill, and many new improvements and labor-saving devices contained in the mill are the results of Mr. Richardson's genius and skill. Everything about the mill betokens a thoroughness in its entire construction.

Mr. Penney (who we believe has a partner in the enterprise, but whose name we did not learn,) will run the mill, for a time at least, under a contract with the Company. Mr. Penney will take about thirty men from here.

The Company will soon erect a dozen cottages for the convenience of the workmen.

The mill is accessible from Bangor by the E. & N. A. R., the N. B. & C. R., and the New Brunswick road. A broad gauge is now being laid over a portion of the road, which, when completed, will permit such arrangements to be made as shall enable people in Bangor to reach Van Buren in one day, instead of requiring two days to make the journey as now.

In the foregoing we have attempted, in a somewhat crude manner, to describe one of the finest mills that stands in the country to-day—a mill which reflects the highest credit upon all who have been in any way connected with its construction.

To the Van Buren Lumber and Manufacturing Company we extend our wishes for its success, as indeed we do every legitimate enterprise. The enterprise in question will prove of great importance to the people of Van Buren, as it will give the village a new impetus, adding to its wealth and population, and tending to convert the adjoining wilderness into an area of rich farming lands.

Police Court.

Several unfortunate worshippers at the shrine of Bacchus were introduced to Recorder Perkins yesterday, His Honor Judge Brett being absent from the city.

Ephraim Mysherll, David Adams and William White were each fined $3 and costs.

John Lee, a more devout votary, was sentenced to 30 days in jail to labor, and was sent up.

The Strasburg Clock.

The wonderful Strasburg clock has attracted a large number of visitors, notwithstanding the very stormy weather of the past week. It will remain on exhibition in this city this week only, and as it may be a long time before it will return here we advise all who have not yet seen it to avail themselves of the present opportunity.

Teachers' Meeting.

There will be a Teachers' meeting at the High school room, May 28th, at 2.30 P. M. The following is the programme:

1—Should reading be taught by the "word method" in our Primary schools? Miss Laura J. Sargent, Miss E. S. Stewart, Miss S. M. Prescott, Miss Gertrude Simpson.

2—Should the practice of allowing one pupil to hear the recitation of another be adopted and to what extent? Miss Jennie A. Philbrook, Miss Ella Boyce, Miss Lizzie J. Shaw.

3—Should exercises in elocution be required? Miss M. E. Cochran, Miss L. A. Spencer, Miss E. A. Blaisdell, Miss C. L Holden, Miss Mary S. Snow.

4—Shall syllables be pronounced in spelling? Miss Alice Patten, Miss F. E. Wright, Miss Georgia Marston, Mrs. A. L. Jones, Miss A. L. Davis.

5—Reading—How to secure attention. Miss E. A. Burr.

6—What course should be pursued with left-handed and stammering children? Dr. Simmons, Dr. Huckins.

The Birds.

Who can describe or appreciate or name them? We wish we could—but we cannot. We would like to know all our feathered friends by name, but to name an unknown bird means to kill it, and we cannot do that. We have in Maine nearly two hundred species of birds. Prof. Hamlin shot and mounted 175 species in Waterville. Every year we see birds we have never seen before. While we have been writing this the Baltimore oriole, the first one we have seen this year alights in the chesnut, and how garrulous he is! He has been gone six months, and he tries to tell us all about it in a minute, though his story of Nicol Jarvis is all Greek to us. A pair of robins alight in front of us every few minutes, tap a few times beside the hole of the earth worm, and the unsuspecting annelid comes up to see who is knocking, and Red Breast soon has him in his bill. A little bit of a bird not bigger than a wren sits on a tree near us, and leisurely picks to pieces a big moth he has taken. The blue bird flies back and forth to an apple tree and seems to find some kind of prey among the opening buds. Some kind of a fly-catcher has perched for an hour on the same tree, from which every moment he makes a short excursion to hunt for bugs, and we presume he catches them, for he chatters his satisfaction after every hop. A colony of swallows (hirundo bicolor) have made their nests in our market-house, and lovely and cheerful birds they are. They dash roguishly close to our window and their dazzling sapphire backs contrast beautifully with their white breasts. What a destruction they must make in the ranks of the insect world!—Gardiner Journal.

VENNOR'S

Weather Predictions.

[From the New York Nation of May 5, 1881]

"The semi-annual change of weather probably occurred on Sunday, April 24th, and the six months' summer has commenced throughout the northern hemisphere. This event has thus happened ten days ahead of its average time, perhaps in some relation to the fact that last fall the opposite change occurred three weeks before its average time (on October 17th). The present is, therefore, a suitable occasion for noticing the success thus far of Mr. Vennor's predictions published in his Almanac for 1881. The majority of these announcements are phrased in a diction so loose that entire non-fulfilment would be impossible. Of such it is idle to treat. In this category we include the following extracts from the 'probabilities' for January last: 'The second quarter will open with heavy snowfalls and terminate in a cold snap.' Now, since snow or cold snaps occur every three or four days in our winters, and the word quarter is a designedly safe method of predicting, it would be almost impossible to refute such a forecast for any 'quarter' whatever. But definite announcements possess a test value, for in these a guesser would be correct exactly half the time. Now, in this class of forecasts Mr. Vennor has not had the luck of an average guesser, as will appear from what follows: 'I expect blockades of snow in the United States about the 7th and 8th of January.' Both of these days were fair. The announcement for February contains the most signal failure which ill-chance could concoct. 'Thaw (which will be interrupted by a brief [!] cold spell) will extend from about [!] the 18th of January up to the 12th of February, with balmy, spring-like weather prevailing in many parts, and snow rapidly disappearing.' In many winters the concluding adjuncts of 'brief' and 'about' would have saved him; but the past winter had no mercy on prophets who prated of thaws and spring-like weather, located they their warm spells definitely or indefinitely. We doubt whether anybody whose avocation called him out of doors during the above twenty-five days will have any hesitation in asserting that a grosser error could by no possibility have been committed. Recurring to the actual figures of the thermometer, as recorded daily at sunrise, we find that from January 15th until February 7th the mercury was not above freezing on a single day; and on no morning during January, February or March did it reach 40°. So much for the long thaw and the balmy, spring-like weather. This term will be followed about the 16th by storms, previous to the setting in of a colder term.' The coldest day in February was the 3d."

"For March most of the announcements are vague, and in ordinary times would, therefore, be accepted as correct by persons disposed to be lenient. But not even Mr. Vennor's cautious 'the month will probably end lamb-like' contained a particle of truth. There was not one mild day in the month; and on the last two days snow fell. 'On the 9th and 10th gales are probable.' Almost any breeze or weather, except a drizzle, might somewhere be thought a gale, 'probably;' but on the 9th and 10th of March it drizzled. The only day on which a gale actually occurred was the 27th, of which day Mr. Vennor said nothing. 'There will be a sharp frost in the beginning of April.' (There was nothing else from the 1st to the 13th but frost.) 'But the spring will open favorably, and everything will be pretty well advanced by April 15th.' Farmers say differently. 'Floods may be expected in Chicago about the 1st week in April.' Rivers are usually high in April. The only question is, which week, and the freshet in Chicago dates only from April 20th. 'There will be warm weather just following the 20th.' The weather became warm on the 24th; so this might have been claimed as an approximate hit had it not been spoiled by the mistaken prediction of snow on the 25th and 26th. The season changed for good, we believe, on the 24th, rendering snowstorms out of the question for six months."

Business Items.

It gives me pleasure to say that Adamson's Botanic Balsam cured me of a severe cold to which I have been subject, especially during the winter months, and I have in many instances recommended it to my friends, and all have been benefitted by its use. Messrs. Kuhn, Loeb & Co., of New York, have placed on the market $5,000,000 loan of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway Company in the shape of five per cent. 40 year gold bonds due 1921, and secured by a first mortgage upon the Chicago & Pacific Western Division of the system of the Company. The interest is payable semi-annually in gold coin on the first days of January and July. These bonds are issued for the purpose of making important additions to the various lines of the company, more especially the Southwestern position of the system, and are emitted only at the rate of $20,000 per mile of completed and equipped road and for bridges and rolling stock. The deed of trust is very explicit and provides that none of these bonds can be issued except for the before mentioned purposes when actually accomplished. The company has always paid seven per cent. on its preferred stock, and for 1880 paid seven per cent. on its common stock. The net earnings last year were $5,343,602, and after paying all fixed charges and seven per cent. on both classes of stocks had a balance of $802,995, which added to the surplus of previous years leaves an undivided balance of income of $3,369,977. This shows that the bonds are a good investment and as they are likely to be rapidly absorbed, investors intending to purchase would do well to make early application. They are now offered at 100 and accrued interest, subject to an advance in price and to closing of subscription without notice.

COMPLICATIONS.

If the thousands that now have their rest and comfort destroyed by complication of liver and kidney complaints would give nature's remedy, Kidney-Wort, a trial they would be speedily cured. It acts on both organs at the same time and therefore completely fills the bill for a perfect remedy. If you have a lame back and disordered kidneys use it at once. Don't neglect them.—Mirror and Farmer.

THE GIRLS POST.

Translated by Bayard Taylor from the Alemadnic German dialect of John Peter Hebel.

D'ye know the road to th' 'arl o' flour?
A break o'day let down the bars,
And plough y'r wheat field hour by hour,
Till sundown—yes, till shade o' stars.

You peg away, the livelong day,
Nor lick' about, nor gape around;
And that's the road to the thrashin'-floor,
And into the kitchen, I'll be bound.

D'ye know the roads where the dollars lay?
Follow the red crabs here and there;
For if the man leaves them, I can guess
He won't find dollars anywhere.

D'ye know the road to Sunday's rest?
Just don't o' week-days be afraid;
In field and workshop do y'r best,
And Sunday comes itself, I've heard.

On Saturday it's not far off,
And brings a basketful o' cheer—
A roast, and lots o' garden-stuff,
And, like as not, a jug o' beer!

D'ye know the road to poverty?
Turn in at any tavern sight;
There is all and more than you can be:
There's bran new cards and liquors fine.

In the last tavern there's a sack,
And, when the cash y'r pocket quits,
Just hang the wallet on y'r back,
You vagabond!—see how it fits!

D'ye know what road to honor leads,
And good old age?—a lovely sight.
By way o' temperance, honest deeds,
And trym' to do your duty right.

And when the road forks any side,
And you're in doubt which one it is,
Stand still and let your conscience guide;
Thank God, it can't lead much amiss.

And now the road to church-yard gate
You needn't ask; go anywhere!
For whether roundabout or straight,
All roads at last 'll bring you there.

Go, fearing God, but lovin' more!
Try hard to be an honest guide—
You'll find the grave has got a door,
And somethin' for you t'other side.

KIDNEY-WORT

DOES WONDERFUL CURES! WHY?

Because it acts on the LIVER, BOWELS and KIDNEYS at the same time.

Because it cleanses the system of the poisonous humors that develope in Kidney and Urinary Diseases, Biliousness, Jaundice, Constipation, Piles, or in Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Nervous Disorders and Female Complaints.

SEE WHAT PEOPLE SAY:

Eugene A. Stork, of Junction City, Kansas, says, Kidney-Wort cured him after regular Physicians had been trying for four years.

Mrs. John Arnall, of Washington, Ohio, says her boy was given up to die by four regular Physicians and that he was afterwards cured by Kidney-Wort.

M. M. B. Goudwin, ex editor in Chardon, Ohio, says he was so crippled to Hoppling Bloated beyond belief, but Kidney-Wort cured him.

Anna L. Jarrett of South Salem, N. Y., says that seven years suffering from kidney troubles and other complications was cended by the use of Kidney-Wort.

John R. Lawrence of Jackson, Tenn., suffered for years from liver and kidney troubles and after taking barrels of other medicines, Kidney-Wort made him well.

Michael Coto of Montgomery Center, Vt., suffered eight years with kidney difficulty and was unable to work. Kidney-Wort made him well as ever.

KIDNEY-WORT

PERMANENTLY CURES KIDNEY DISEASES, LIVER COMPLAINTS, Constipation and Piles.

☞ It is put up in Dry Vegetable Form in tin cans, one package of which makes six quarts of medicine. Also in Liquid Form, very concentrated, for those that cannot readily prepare it.

☞ It acts with equal efficiency in either form.

"FAVORITE REMEDY"

Recommended by Clergymen, Statesmen and Others.

SALT RHEUM.

Hon. J. H. Snyder, of Saugerties, N. Y., gratefully testifies to the ability of "Favorite Remedy" as exhibited in the case of his little daughter who was covered with Salt Rheum from head to foot. "Favorite Remedy," says this thankful father, "relieved my girl altogether from this fearful affliction, Salt Rheum. This occurred two years ago, and not a sign of the disease has since appeared. What it did for this child it will do for all who use it.

LIVER DISEASE.

Mr. J. H. Northrop, of Lansingburg, N. Y., for several years Captain of the Troy police, says: "I have been for a long time a great sufferer from derangement of the liver, and after using many of the medicines recommended for that complaint, Dr. Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" is the only one which gave me any relief. I firmly believe that your "Favorite Remedy" is a good, honest preparation; one that may be depended upon."

CHRONIC LIVER DISEASE.

Rev. J. G. Smith, of Hartford, Ct., says: "Being a great sufferer from Chronic Liver Disease and Indigestion, I at last tried your "Favorite Remedy" and found immediate relief. I used two bottles, which worked wonders in my general system."

TESTIMONIALS:

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse.

CHAS. MASON, Commissioner of Patents.

"Inventors cannot employ a person more trustworthy or more capable of securing for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE, late Commissioner of Patents."

Beaver, October 15, 1876.

R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: you procured for me, in 1840, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, in your line, and advise others to employ you. Yours truly,

GEORGE DRAPER.

If you are a man of business, weak and feel the strain of your duties, avoid stimulants and use Hop Bitters.

If you are young and indiscretion or disease has made you weak, old or nervous, or languish, use Hop Bitters.

If your sleep is broken by pain, use Hop Bitters.

If you are a man of letters, toiling or burning the midnight work, to recruit your brain and nerve waste, use Hop Bitters.

If your food does not agree with you, your digestion is bad, your blood impure, your liver torpid, your nerves shattered, use Hop Bitters.

If you are suffering from any infection or disease, whether of single, old or recent standing, use Hop Bitters.

If you are young, and imprudence or disease has left you a wreck, use Hop Bitters.

If you are a mother suffering from some form of disease that might have been prevented by a timely use of Hop Bitters.

Whenever you are sick, whenever you feel that your system needs cleansing, toning or stimulating, without intoxicating, take Hop Bitters.

Have you dyspepsia, biliousness, kidney or urinary complaint, disease of the stomach, bowels, blood, liver or nerves? You will be cured if you use Hop Bitters.

If you are simply weak and low spirited, try it! It may save your life. It has saved hundreds.

FELLOWS' SYRUP

Its first apparent effect is to increase the appetite. It assists digestion, and causes the food to assimilate properly—thus the system is nourished. If also, by its tonic action on the digestive organs, induces more copious and regular evacuations. The rapidity with which patients take on flesh while under the influence of the Syrup, of itself indicates that no other preparation can be better adapted to help and nourish the constitution, and hence be more efficacious in all depression of spirits, shaking or trembling of the hands or body, cough, shortness of breath, or consumptive habit. The nerves and muscles become strengthened, and the blood purified.

The various kinds of waste or decay that affect the human body, though attended each with some symptom not common with the rest, agree very much in this, that the basis in all is nearly the same. It is generally conceded, that the majority of diseases are accompanied by faulty digestion; and such being the case, we must, in order to cure such diseases, cause the organs of digestion to perform their proper functions. No remedy has before been discovered which has so beneficial an influence on these organs as Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

Real Estate.

A nice house and land attached, located in Winter Harbor, Maine, four miles via water from Bar Harbor, Mount Desert. This estate is particularly adapted as a summer residence for some gentleman's family. Connections by yacht to Bar Harbor daily, though a steamer will probably ply between these places the coming season, as the steamboat wharf is now completed. The estate commands a fine ocean view, being situated on the main land at the head of one of the best sounds and harbors in Maine.

For health, pleasant location, fishing, hunting and boating it cannot be surpassed in Maine.

LETTER CARRIERS.

All letters are delivered free by carrier when addressed to street and number. People should inform their correspondents of above and have their letters addressed accordingly.

Persons leaving their address at the General Delivery can also have their letters sent, but it is much more convenient to have the street and number on, and they will be delivered earlier than if the same is put on at the office. Carriers make two deliveries daily, the first trip supplying the extremes of their routes.

Collections are made morning and evening in season for important mails.

Holidays the Carrier's Window will be open for the delivery of letters from 8½ to 9½ A. M., and from 7½ to 8½ P. M. Sundays from 8½ to 9½ A. M.

Any irregularities in the Carriers' department should be reported to the office.

ENVELOPES.

No additional charge will be made for printing the name and regular place to return, across the left hand upper corner of the envelopes furnished by the Post Office Department, (samples of which may be seen at the Cashier's window,) when ordered in lots of not less than 500.

A request for the return of a letter to the writer, if unclaimed within thirty days, or less, written or printed, with the writer's name, post office and State, across the left end of the envelope, on the face side, will be complied with.

☞ The public are earnestly recommended to procure Stamped envelopes with printed return request, as the expense is less, and letters thus endorsed, if not delivered to the person addressed, are returned to the writer free of charge.

First class envelopes of above furnished at $2.25 per thousand.

Stamps cut from Stamped Envelopes cannot be used to prepay postage. The use of such stamps is punishable by a fine of $50 dollars.

Stamped Envelopes, spoiled in directing, are redeemed at this office.

DOMESTIC POSTAGE.

FIRST CLASS.

All Letters must be Pre-paid.—Letters for the Mails in the United States, three cents the half ounce or single rate. City letters, two cents half ounce or single rate.

SECOND CLASS.

Newspapers.

All regular newspapers must be prepaid at the office of publication, at the rate of two cents per pound for each issue. The same law applies to dealers.

County papers free, except to letter carrier offices. Papers coming to this office, if published in County, are subject to postage. Daily papers published in County, if delivered by carrier, one cent each, to be prepaid by stamps.

Postage to Canada.—Same as in the States on letters and papers, pre-payment compulsory; merchandise limited to 8 oz., postage 10 cents.

THIRD CLASS.

Postage One Cent for Two Ounces.

Books (printed and blank), transient newspapers and periodicals, circulars, and other matter wholly in print, proof sheets and corrected proof sheets and manuscript copy accompanying the same, prices current with prices filled out in writing, printed commercial papers filled out in writing (provided such writing is not in the nature or personal correspondence, and the papers are not the expression of a monetary value), hand bills, posters, chromo lithographs, engravings, envelopes with printing thereon, heliotypes, lithographs, photographic and stereoscopic view with title written thereon, printed blanks and printed cards.

FOURTH CLASS.

Postage One Cent for each Ounce.

Blank cards, card board and other flexible material, flexible patterns, letter envelopes and letter paper without printing thereon, merchandise, models, seeds, cuttings, slips and samples of ores, metals, minerals, seeds, cuttings, bulbs, roots, scions, drawings, plans, designs, ornamental paintings in oil or water colors and any other matter not included in first, second or third classes, and which is not in its form or nature liable to destroy, deface or otherwise damage the contents of the mail bag or harm the person of any one engaged in the postal service.

Upon matter of third or fourth class the sender may write his own name or address with the word "from," without extra charge for postage.

Third and fourth class matter may be registered same as first class, on payment of the register fee of 10 cents.

ADVERTISED LETTERS.

All letters remaining in the office are advertised on Monday of each week. If not claimed in one month thereafter, they are then forwarded to the Dead Letter office.

MONEY ORDERS.

Especial attention is called to the Money Order system, as a safe and cheap method of transmitting small sums through the mails. Orders are issued in sums of not more than fifty dollars. Larger amounts can be transmitted to the same person, at the same time, by additional orders.

RATES.

On orders not exceeding $15,	10 cents.
" over $15 and not exceeding $30,	15 cents.
" over $30 and not exceeding $40,	20 cents.
" over $40 and not exceeding $50,	25 cents.

Money Orders can also be obtained on England, Ireland, Scotland, Wales, Switzerland and German States.

Never put Money in a Letter—Always Procure a Money Order.

If money is to be remitted, a Postal Money Order should be obtained. If upon points where there is no Money Order Office, then the letter should be Registered. Money should never be enclosed in an ordinary letter.

Office Hours—From 8 A. M. to 6 P. M.
